

The Shapes of Water

Princeton University reflected in a rain puddle.

*A photographic adventure by Tasha O'Neill on display at the North County Branch Library
November & December*

“Water is the elixir of life but it is more than that, it holds beauty within each droplet, sometimes singly and most of the time in millions combined.”

Fog freezes into ice, coating every surface including these vibrant red leaves.